Publisher's Note:

Please be aware that students reading Great Christian Classics: Volume 1 will find sexual immorality and other sin being addressed in the context of brokenness and separation from God, as well as historic instances of brutality and violence toward missionaries and new believers in cultures first being introduced to the truth of God's Word. These writings are among the most influential for the early Church and the development of faith missions around the world, so the reader will discover each author's personal struggles with sin as well as uncertainty on the road to powerful, unshaken belief and trust in Christ as they share their faith.

About the authors:

Augustine (354-430) is perhaps the most influential thinker of the first thousand years of Christian history. This fifth-century Christian wrote Confessions as a biography in the form of a prayer to God.

Patrick (387-493), amid the chaos following the collapse of the Roman Empire, was a man of legendary faith who led the way to the evangelization of the wild and pagan tribes of Ireland.

Few men have lived in more dangerous times than John Knox (c.1510-1572) of Scotland. Yet, he would lead a reformation movement in a very dangerous land, leaving a testimony for generations to come.

Having written arguably one of the most popular literary works in history, The Pilgrim's Progress, John Bunyan (1628-1688) was a great man who could tell great stories because he lived them. His personal testimony, Grace Abounding, records one of the most tumultuous and agonizing spiritual journeys.

The kingdom of God is only taken by force by courageous men of faith like John Paton (1824-1907), whose missionary work among the cannibals in the New Hebrides is nothing short of legendary.

Grading Options for This Course: It is always the prerogative of an educator to assess student grades however he or she might deem best. The following is only a suggested guideline based on the material presented through this course:

To calculate the percentage of the worksheets and quizzes, the educator may use the following guide. Divide total number of questions correct (example: 43) by the total number of questions possible (example: 46) to calculate the percentage out of 100 possible. $43/46 = 93$ percent correct.

The suggested grade values are noted as follows: 90 to 100 percent = A; 80 to 89 percent = B; 70 to 79 percent = C; 60 to 69 percent = D; and 0 to 59 percent = F.

Essays: There are Essay Grading Criteria Sheets provided in the back of the book to help the teacher grade these subjective student responses.

Vocabulary 2 Sentences: Note that these sections are for students to use the words in sentences that were mentioned in Vocabulary 1. These do not need to be graded. Glossaries are also provided in the back.
