Quick Notes Before You Begin . . .

1. Each template includes five vocabulary words as either tabs or separate pieces that go in a pocket. That way, students can write the definition for each word under the tab or on the back of the separate piece.
2. For each root, I have included five vocabulary words that use the root. I chose words that should be familiar (to help students make connections with the root and its meaning) as well as new words (to challenge students).
3. Each root activity also includes vocabulary cards with example words, definitions, parts of speech, and sample sentences. You might choose to have students glue these on the left-hand page opposite the template. Or, you can have students keep these in a pocket they create in the back of their notebooks.
4. In the Prefixes section, complete vocabulary cards are not included. Instead, word lists are provided for each prefix on the direction page for each activity.
5. The Suffixes section is organized into three categories: suffixes that form nouns, suffixes that form adjectives, and suffixes that form verbs and adverbs. Again, word lists are included on the direction page for suffixes (page 93).
6. This notebook can be used along with any Greek and Latin roots and affixes program. You do not have to complete all of the templates in the book—you can pick and choose the ones that you plan to cover. However, if you choose to use this book as the basis for teaching roots and affixes, refer to the Suggested Pacing Guide on page 9.
