Making the Snowflakes

Open the beads and metal end caps and place them in the tray. Use the tray as a workstation to hold your beads while crafting.

Place a towel on your work surface. This will help the assembly process, and keep the beads from rolling away when beading your snowflakes.

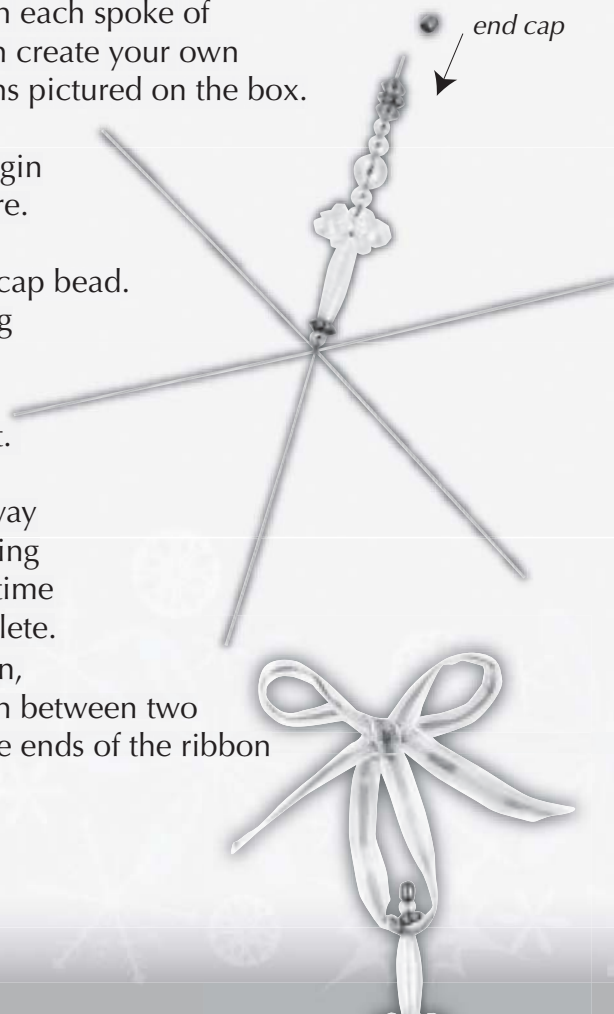

1) Carefully remove a wire snowflake form and lay it on your towel.

2) To make symmetrical snowflakes (all sides the same) you will need to repeat the same beading pattern on each spoke of the snowflake form. You can create your own pattern, or follow the designs pictured on the box.

3) Select your beads and begin threading them onto the wire. Leave enough space at the end of the wire for the end cap bead. Secure the beads by pushing the end cap firmly over the wire spoke. Be sure it fits snugly so the beads stay put.

4) Continue working your way around the wire form, beading and securing one wire at a time until the snowflake is complete.

5) To add the hanging ribbon, knot the center of the ribbon between two end beads as shown. Tie the ends of the ribbon into a pretty bow.

Need a handmade gift for someone special? Personalize the front of the envelope, tuck the snowflake inside and then seal it with the sticker provided.

Decorate and Display

Here are some other great ideas to try:

Invite your friends over and have a snowflake making party. These are great for small groups and family celebrations.

Use the snowflakes to decorate your windows all winter long. Beaded snowflakes make great package decorations and secret Santa gifts.

Put your favorite holiday cookies in a gift bag and then decorate it with a beaded snowflake.

Going to a party? Here's a great hostess gift idea. Decorate a bottle of sparkling apple juice or your favorite soft drink with a beautiful beaded snowflake. Tie the ribbon around the neck of the bottle to secure.

We do not recommend mailing the beaded ornaments in the gift envelope provided. If you want to send your ornament to someone special, padded envelopes can be purchased at most post offices, shipping centers and office supply stores.
